Seasons

LOW WATER SEASON

June to November. At this time the climate is drier and the low water levels attract creatures that can hardly be seen in the rainy season. The water level of the rivers falls during this period, exposing surprising sandy beaches. An ideal time to stroll through the forest and discover the Amazonian flora and fauna. Ideal for travelers who want to discover the Amazon's flora and fauna by walking through the rainforest.

HIGH WATER SEASON

December to May. This time of year is marked by rains and storms. It is in these months when most plants bloom or bear fruit, creating a unique show. Birds and primates are attracted by this spectacle and can be seen on the banks of the river. Ideal for travelers who prefer exploring the Amazon and its tributaries by boat rather than walking.

Food & Beverages

Gastronomy is an essential part of Amazonian culture. And the culinary experience aboard Zafiro includes familiar dishes from back home and exciting new recipes that reflect the flavors and foods of both the Amazon and Peru. Admire the rainforest from your table while you sample exquisite new dishes.

Our Executive chef will delight your palate with an Amazon fusion cuisine.

We are happy to accommodate any special diets and restrictions with timely prior notice.

Amazon Conservation

Tourism has an enormous transformative power over regions and cultures, making this transformation positive and respectful of the lands and the people who inhabit them is our responsibility and for this reason we are deeply committed to protecting the ecosystem and its people.

In our commitment to a sustainable and responsible management of tourism, we are constantly working with local communities, visiting them with non-perishable food, provisions, clothes, and shoes.

We take advantage of these visits to teach children about environmental conservation, this activity is carried out to raise awareness and sensitize the community about the importance of protecting and preserving our environment and natural resources.

We also work with artisan women from the San Francisco community, on the Ucayali River. The artwork of these talented women is displayed on the ship as part of the decoration and we encourage tourists to purchase these artistic pieces and thus contribute to this community.

In addition to our efforts for the conservation of the Amazon and its resources, we are now partners and actively collaborate with Amazon Forever and Amazon Forever BioPark, a non-profit organization that promotes the conservation of white sand forests and other Amazon ecosystems through positive contact with nature, education, research, and the preservation of wildlife.

Another important contribution is our support for the Association for the Conservation of Amazonian Biodiversity (ACOBIA); where we collaborate with a donation for the execution of their activities.
